Personal Reflection

Overall as a person I feel like I have been hard on myself, and for good reason. I feel like I could do more with my life and look over everything I have accomplished, and how it seems like so little. Obviously, I am only 20 years old, but it seems like I should have more accomplishments or awards to show all the things I have done.

In my classes so far, I haven't done anything too complicated or crazy and unless I spend a lot of time outside of school on projects for my resume, I feel like I don't have enough knowledge or experience to be applying for internships and jobs. I feel like working in the jobs I've done have given me people skills that not everyone has gotten.

I've also taken a few linguistic classes which give me a unique perspective on the English language. I also have taken IT1610 which goes into adobe software such as photoshop, illustrator and audition. I think that I just need to take some more classes to start feeling comfortable with what I have created and what I can create in the future.

Overall, I'm not very comfortable with what I have created in college and feel like I need to do more with my resume and classes to become more comfortable in life, especially with the career fair coming up this semester.
